

Don't Assume It's Been Said Before

I thought our deal had lost its juice
Seemed every talk's a strain.
Our days end in "What's the use?"
Life was such a pain.

I dunno what turned the corner
I dunno who flipped the switch
I didn't earn an extra quarter
Yet I went from poor to rich.

I guess I finally got it;
I feel how less is more.
The point, lest we forget it:
Don't assume it's been said before!

So if you're in a leaky boat
Along a dark and rocky shore
Before you play that final note
Don't assume it's been said before!

For you don't know what's written
It was written long before
Your heart first was smitten
Don't assume it's been said before!

Love ain't 'bout mathematics
It's best you don't keep score
But I'll tell what's axiomatic:
Don't assume it's been said before!

So gather up your spirit

Turn your inner less to more
Speak loud so she can hear it:
Don't assume it's been said before!

I love you like the sunset
That dances on the shore
I bet every chip I got
It's never been said before!

Why'd I ever doubt us?
What did I once deplore?
How'd I get so lost about us?
I assumed it's been said before!

Now I love you like the sunset
That dances on the shore
I bet every chip I got
It's never been said before!

Jackson Hogen
© September 14, 2012